

Prime Minister extends good wishes to Assam Government for the Gunotsav

Dispur, April 5: Prime Minister Narendra Modi today congratulated Assam Government led by Chief Minister Sarbananda Sonowal on the start of Gunotsav. Extending his best wishes to the State Government for this initiative on Twitter, Prime Minister Modi said that this programme would play a vital role in measuring the quality of teaching and learning in the government schools of the state and help in preparing a roadmap to improve education sector.

"Gunotsav is a great initiative to gauge the quality of learning. Teachers & students will greatly benefit from this", Modi said. The Prime Minister remarked that Gunotsav would improve education standards across the state.

It is to be mentioned that Gunotsav starting from today, a campaign by State Government for the Primary Schools of the state, seeks to evaluate the attendance of the students in schools, measure advancement in teaching methods, availability of educational resources and their utilization, commitment of teachers, check infrastructure level of schools, participation of society in the school programmes etc. Starting from the Chief Minister and Education Minister, bureaucrats and top officials of the state government themselves would visit the schools during Gunotsav and act as external evaluators.
